

Hello Matey_____

When it comes to preparing for a potential crisis, food should definitely be on the top of the list. Simply put, you will not survive without any kind of sustenance. When you go camping or backpacking, for example, you should bring survival snacks filled with nutrients to keep you going. In case something goes wrong, these survival snacks will help sustain you until you get to safety or are rescued.

Looking ahead, you should start building your emergency food supply. These non-perishable foods will be your lifeline in case of a crisis and you lose access to fresh foods.

Going further still, you should stock up on survival seeds so you can start an edible garden in the future. The produce you'll be growing will help you survive and even thrive in such apocalyptic scenarios.

Enjoy,

Tee Jay

11 Survival Seeds to Stockpile for the Apocalypse

People new to prepping will likely focus on canned goods and ready-to-eat meals when they start building their emergency food supply. There's nothing wrong with that since these food items are the obvious choices. However, you should think further ahead and consider stockpiling survival seeds so you can start an edible garden in the future. Read More Here
